

Level: bachelor
Course title: GEOGRAPHIC BASIS OF SPECIAL ETHNOLOGY
Status: elective
ECTS: 6
Requirements: -
Learning objectives
Improve students' basic knowledge of humanistic education: man and culture.
Learning outcomes
Acquiring ethnologic concepts and recognizing the causal links between ethnology and other disciplines, especially Geography. Acquiring basic ethno-geographic characteristics of the population of Vojvodina (Serbs, Hungarians, Slovaks, Croats, Roma, Romanians, Montenegrins, Bunjevci, Rusyns and others). Acquiring basic ethno-geographic characteristics of the population of the Balkan and Europe. Acquiring basic ethno-geographic characteristics of the population of Africa and America. Acquiring basic ethno-geographic characteristics of the population of Asia and Australia.
Syllabus
Theoretical instruction
Demographic development of nations and nationalities of Vojvodina. The number and the structure of the population. Serbs, Hungarians, Croats, Bunjevci, Sokci, Slovaks, Montenegrins, Romanians, Roma, Rusyns, Ukrainians and others. Balkan and European nations. Settlements, languages, food habits, clothing, types of farming, customs and specificities. African nations. Settlements, languages, food habits, clothing, types of farming, customs and specificities. North and South American nations. Settlements, languages, food habits, clothing, types of farming, customs and specificities. Asian nations. Settlements, languages, food habits, clothing, types of farming, customs and specificities. Australian and Oceania nations. Settlements, languages, food habits, clothing, types of farming, customs and specificities.
Practical instruction
Introducing concrete folklore heritage of the nations who live in Vojvodina (national buildings; museums, galleries and ethno parks; materials, spiritual and technical culture). Reports of the data acquired in the field.
Weekly teaching load				Other:
Lectures: 2	Exercises: 1	Other forms of teaching:	Student research:	