

Level: bachelor
Course title: Tourist spatial planning
Status: elective
ECTS: 5
Requirements: None
Learning objectives Introduce students to the basic concepts of spatial tourism. Consideration of space as an essential element of tourism trends, its importance to tourism in general, and the importance and need for its tourism planning and development. The aim is to introduce students to a variety of tourist valorization potential through holiday decorating and furnishing the space. Highlighting tourism spatial planning as an important factor and destination development.
Learning outcomes Training students for understanding the contemporary transformation processes in the tourist areas. Independent planning, urban development for tourism purposes, in accordance with existing tourist values.
Syllabus Theoretical instruction The study of the components of geographic environment, the elements of geographic environment of importance for the optimal planning of the area in which one lives, exploring the essence of certain types of spatial plans, methods of planning and development of tourist regions, environmental protection as an element of spatial planning, urban development perspective and spatial planning. Practical instruction Consideration of cartographic (maps), statistics and other relevant materials to illustrate urban theoretical part of teaching.
Weekly teaching load				Other:
Lectures: 2	Exercises: 2	Other forms of teaching: -	Student research: -	